Executive Summary

In 1967, the Hawaii State Legislature created the Crime Victim Compensation Commission (“Commission”) to mitigate the financial impact suffered by victims of violent crime. The Commission disburses funds to pay un-reimbursed expenses for crime-related losses experienced by victims who suffer physical or emotional injury, or death, as the result of a violent crime. During Fiscal Year (“FY”) 2003, the Commission processed over 1,600 claims, including 970 new applications.

The Commission continues to pursue its mission to provide each claimant with compassionate and timely service. The Commission actively collaborates with numerous public and private agencies dedicated to serving crime victims as part of its effort to continuously improve the delivery of compensation services.

In FY 2003, the Commission began two new projects, the Mass Violence and Terrorism Response Project (“Response Project”), and the Restitution Recovery Project (“Restitution Project”). The Response Project seeks to integrate compensation and victim services into the County and State Incident Command Response model for incidents of mass violence and terrorism. The Response Project will enable the Commission and the County Victim Assistance Programs to cooperatively provide seamless and timely services to victims and survivors of, and witnesses to mass violence and terrorism.

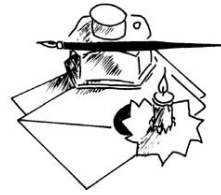

The Restitution Project collects Restitution Payments from inmates and parolees and disburses those funds to the crime victims. As a result of the Restitution Project, many more crime victims will receive reimbursement for their crime-related expenses. In addition, offenders are held accountable for the financial losses they inflicted upon the victim of their crime and begin to develop a sense of self-respect and pride in righting the wrongs they have committed.

Achieving, and maintaining, a consistent and adequate source of revenue to underwrite the costs of compensating victims continues to be the most important issue facing the Commission. The Commission no longer receives any general funds from the State, and relies solely on non-tax revenue and matching federal funds. The primary source of non-tax revenue for the Commission is the mandatory crime victim compensation fee (“compensation fee”). In 1998, the Legislature established the compensation fee and directed that it be assessed against all criminal offenders to provide a reliable funding base for the Commission’s mission - helping to restore crime victims.

The Commission estimates that there has been a shortfall of over one million dollars in compensation fee collections since the compensation fee was enacted by the Legislature. Despite the fee being mandatory, some judges are still not assessing the compensation fee in all eligible cases. Recent court monitoring surveys conducted by the Commission indicate some improvement in the assessment and collection of the compensation fee. However, there remain a significant number of cases in which judges are not requiring the offenders to comply with this legislative mandate. In many of the cases surveyed, no explanation is provided as to why the compensation fee was not assessed. The impact of the loss of the estimated one million dollars of revenue since the compensation fee was enacted is to rob the Commission of its ability to ensure adequate compensation to Hawaii’s victims of violent crime.

To recoup this revenue, the Commission may be forced to request an increase in the amount of the compensation fee, or re-establish general fund appropriation to the Commission, to ensure that crime victims are not hurt by the lost collections. Even if judges were to immediately begin assessing and collecting the compensation fee in all eligible cases, as required by the statute, it would not make up for the estimated loss of one million dollars in the last four years. The lost one million dollars in compensation fee revenue (not to mention the loss of an additional several hundred thousand dollars from the federal funding match) would have assured that the Commission would have revenues sufficient to meet the ever-increasing costs of violent crime victimization. A secure funding base would ensure fiscal self-sufficiency for both crime victims and the Commission.

Our Mission

“The mission of the Crime Victim Compensation Commission is to equitably and efficiently provide crime victims the services due to them under Hawaii law. In doing so, the Commission treats every victim and survivor with dignity and respect, acknowledging the tremendous impact that violent crime has upon our society.”

Overview and History

The Hawaii State Legislature created the Crime Victim Compensation Commission (“Commission”) in 1967, making it the third agency of its kind in the nation. Hawaii’s program was established to pay unreimbursed expenses to victims who suffer physical or emotional injury or death as the result of a violent crime. Hawaii also recognizes the need to acknowledge the pain and suffering of crime victims. The Commission provides the State with an effective vehicle through which to acknowledge victims of violent crimes.

Between 1967 and 2002, the primary source of funding was general funds through the State legislature. However, beginning in Fiscal Year (“FY”) 2003, not a single Hawaii tax dollar is used to operate the Commission. Currently, Commission funding is achieved through the following means:

- Compensation fees assessed by judges against offenders
- Court-ordered restitution reimbursement paid by offenders to reimburse the Commission for compensation already paid to victims
- 10% of all Hawaii inmate wages regardless of where the inmate is housed
- Interest income from retained funds
- Federal funds secured through the Victim of Crimes Act (VOCA) - the Commission receives a 60% match from VOCA for every State dollar spent to compensate victims of violent crime

Since its creation, the Commission has processed over 15,000 claims for the people of Hawaii who have been victims of violent crimes. Currently, the Commission receives about 1,000 claims, and awards over one million dollars, annually. Awards assist the victims with medical costs, lost wages, funeral expenses, and counseling costs that are not covered by any other source.

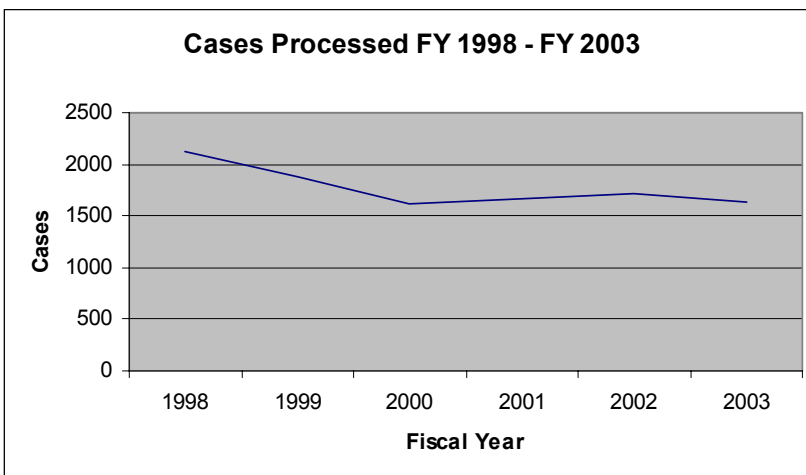

In order for victims to be eligible, the crime must be reported to law enforcement within 72 hours, and an application must be received by the Commission within 18 months of the incident.

The victim must provide the Commission with documentation such as medical bills, insurance statements, pay stubs, or income tax returns in order to substantiate the claim.

Annual Activity

Operations

The number of claims processed by the Commission has risen steadily each year. During FY 2003, the Commission received 970 new applications and processed over 1,600 new and ongoing claims. Of the 970 new applications, 770 were determined to be victims of a covered crime. Every year, a percentage of applications are denied for reasons such as incomplete documentation, crimes not covered, and failure to meet reporting deadlines.

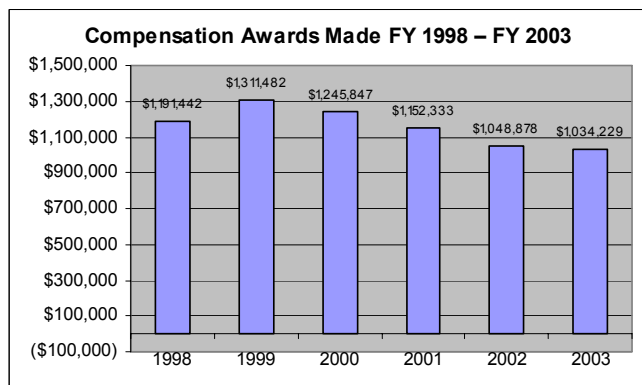

The Commission gives each application full consideration and works diligently with every victim to ensure accurate and efficient claims processing.

Fiscal Year 2003 is the first year that the Commission has operated completely independent of Hawaii tax dollars. This means that all funds come from the sources listed above in this report. It is therefore essential that all appropriate sources be assessed and collected. The Commission relies on the cooperation of the Judiciary to assess and collect funds from convicted offenders.

“Thank you very much for your administrative decision and order. I accept [the monetary] . . . award for my daughter . . . Thank you all very much for your help.”

Parent of a child sex-assault victim

It is vitally important to note that Hawaii now receives a sixty percent (60%) match from the federal Victims of Crime Act. Therefore, money not assessed against and collected from convicted offenders is a compounded loss because when money is not initially collected and spent, a federal match of funds cannot be made.

New Projects

Mass Violence and Terrorism Project

In 1999, a copier company's employee murdered six co-workers in Honolulu. In the aftermath of this tragedy, two primary constraints were identified that limited the Commission's ability to assist survivors of incidents of mass violence and terrorism. First, the Commission did not have the statutory authority to provide compensation for mental health counseling to surviving family members, witnesses, or individuals who worked or were schooled at the scene of this type of incident. Second, compensation and victim services were not integrated into the County and State Incident Command Model for responding to mass violence and terrorism. This limited the ability of the Commission and the County Victim Witness Assistance Programs to respond to the immediate needs of victims, survivors, and witnesses.

The first constraint was addressed when the Commission lobbied for legislation to authorize the disbursement of compensation to fund mental health counseling services for surviving family members, witnesses, and individuals who worked or were schooled at the scene of an incident of mass violence or terrorism. In 2000, the Legislature passed a bill authorizing the Commission to provide compensation for mental health counseling services to the victims of, survivors of, and witnesses to mass violence and terrorism incidents.

The second constraint was addressed when the Commission and representatives from various Federal, State, and County law enforcement agencies began a series of meetings to develop a strategy to deal with this issue. Meetings in each of the Counties brought together County and State incident command response agencies, the United States Attorney, the State Department of the Attorney General, the Commission, and the County Victim Witness Programs to discuss the integration of compensation and victim services into the command response model. Meeting participants recognized that the incident command agencies had already developed protocols for dealing with mass violence and terrorism. Everyone agreed that the most effective strategy would be to build the compensation and victim assistance protocol around the existing command response protocol.

The Commission and other stakeholders continue their collaborative efforts to ensure that the needs of victims, survivors, and witnesses will be met in the event of another incident of mass violence or terrorism in Hawaii.

Restitution Project

“...in the criminal justice system, the victim of crime is almost always neglected. By requiring the convicted person to make restitution and reparation to the victim, justice is served. In so doing, the criminal repays not only “society” but the persons injured in the criminal’s act. There is a dual benefit to this concept: the victim is repaid for his loss and the criminal may develop a degree of self-respect and pride in knowing that he or she righted the wrong committed.”

Sen. Stand. Comm. Rep. No 789, in 1975 Senate Journal @1132, commentary on the Senate’s intent in passing HRS section 706-605(1)(e) which authorizes Courts to order restitution.

In 1975, Section 706-605(1)(e), Hawaii Revised Statutes, was enacted to provide the Courts with specific statutory authority to order defendants to make restitution payments to cover the economic losses suffered by the victims of their crime. Since the passage of this provision, a significant number of victims have not received the court-ordered restitution that they are entitled to. Victims have found it particularly difficult to recover court-ordered restitution from sentenced felons¹ and parolees.

The Judiciary previously processed restitution payments for all offenders, including inmates and parolees. For the last decade, the Judiciary has tried to divest itself of the responsibility for processing restitution payments made by inmates and parolees. During this time period, the Judiciary and the Department of Public Safety (“PSD”) have been at an administrative stalemate over who has the responsibility to process restitution payments made by inmates and parolees.

The system that was created to process court-ordered restitution payments was not working. In order to open a restitution account for an inmate or parolee, the Judiciary required the name and address of the victim before they would accept any restitution payments. This procedure created a significant barrier to the payment of restitution by inmates and parolees. In many cases it was difficult or impossible for PSD and the Hawaii Paroling Authority (“Paroling Authority”) to secure the name and address of the victim. Victim service providers were understandably uncomfortable about giving the names and addresses of domestic abuse, sexual assault, and other crime victims to PSD and the Paroling Authority. They were concerned that victim safety would be jeopardized if an inmate or parolee inadvertently saw the name and address of their victim in their file.

Despite numerous meetings between the Judiciary, PSD, the Paroling Authority, and victim service providers, and several false starts, efforts to resolve this issue ultimately failed until the Commission stepped forward. With the support of the PSD Director, the Paroling Authority, and the Honolulu Victim Witness Kokua Program, the Commission initiated a one-year pilot project to accept responsibility for the collection and disbursement of restitution paid by inmates and parolees.

The Project

On January 1, 2003, the Commission initiated the one-year pilot project to collect and disburse restitution paid by inmates and parolees. The Commission has opened over 232 restitution cases

“Because of the collaborative efforts between the Crime Victim Compensation Commission and the Hawaii Paroling Authority, there are more timely payments of restitution to crime victims than there have been in the past.”

Tommy Johnson, Administrator, Hawaii Paroling Authority

and collected over $30,000 in restitution to disburse to crime victims from January 1, 2003 through September 30, 2003. Information identifying the whereabouts of crime victims is kept confidential so that the safety needs of victims are being met.

The barriers that made it difficult for PSD and the Paroling Authority to open restitution accounts at the Judiciary have been eliminated. PSD and the Paroling Authority need only send restitution payments to the Commission. The Commission and its partners, the County Victim Witness Programs, locate the crime victim and disburse the payment.

PSD and the Judiciary have a significant number of old restitution cases where they received restitution payments but were unable to locate the victims. The Commission and the County Victim Witness Programs have committed to assist PSD and the Judiciary in resolving these cases by helping them locate the crime victims. This will benefit the victims and enable PSD and the Judiciary to dispose of these unresolved cases.

A functional restitution project benefits all involved. It is now easy for Parole Officers to increase the accountability of their clients by having them repay the crime victim they injured. This project also assists the County Victim Witness Programs in their efforts to restore the crime victims they serve. In some cases where the Commission provided awards to crime victims for medical, mental health, or funeral costs, the Commission is reimbursed those funds, allowing more crime victims to be helped.

“Restitution is the cornerstone of restorative justice. Saying we are committed to restorative justice means nothing unless we make a sincere and concerted effort to make sure victims get restitution – without that -- restorative justice means nothing. If an offender is not serious about paying restitution, they are not serious about rehabilitating themselves.”

Dennis Dunn, Director, Victim Witness Kokua Program, Department of the Prosecuting Attorney, City and County of Honolulu

This pilot project is scheduled to end on December 31, 2003. The Commission is committed to this project going forward as it has been a win-win situation for crime victims and all of the agencies involved in the effort. However, in order to continue the project, the Commission needs the on-going support of the PSD Director, the Paroling Authority, and the County Victim Witness Programs. In addition, the Commission needs the support of the Governor to approve extending the temporary exempt position for the restitution project staff, or the Governor's support to exempt the Commissions' positions so that the Commission is able to fill the position with an appropriate candidate. The Commission is not requesting any additional personnel for this effort, and was able to initiate this project without the need for additional staff. This was accomplished by converting an existing clerical-level position to the temporary, exempt position. The Commission remains strongly committed to doing more with less.

Assessment and Collection of the Crime Victim Compensation Fee

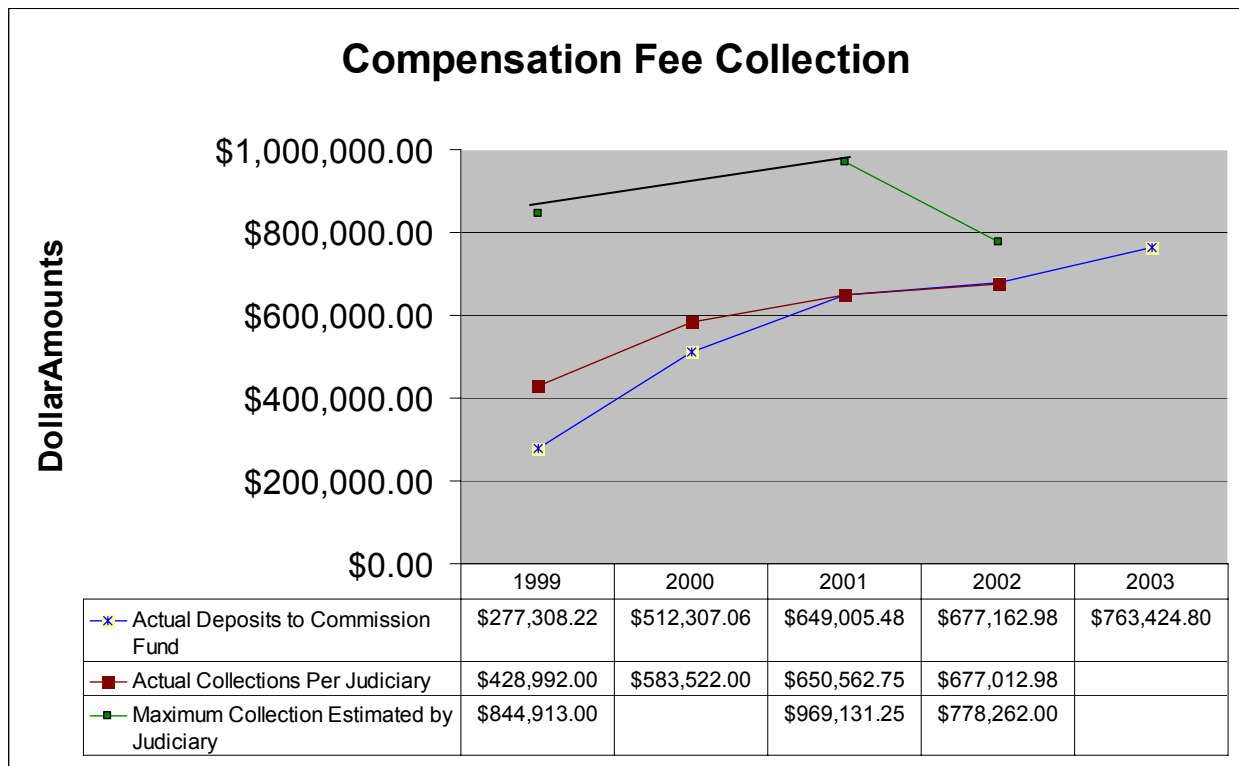

In 1998, the Legislature created the compensation fee to provide a funding base for the Commission to become fiscally self-sufficient. The Commission no longer receives any general funds. The compensation fee is required to be assessed against every offender who is convicted of, or who enters a deferred plea (DAG/DANC) to, a petty misdemeanor, misdemeanor, or felony, and is able to pay the fee.²

Since the compensation fee was enacted, the Judiciary has neglected to order and collect over one million dollars in compensation fees, as defined in the statute. In the first year that the fee was mandated (FY 1999), the Judiciary assessed and collected less than half of the fee revenue that was anticipated. While the Judiciary estimated compensation fee revenue of $844,913 for FY 1999, less than $300,000.00 was actually collected. In FY 2001, the Judiciary estimated fee revenue at $969,131.25 while only $650,562.75 was collected, and in FY 2002, the Judiciary estimated fee revenue at $778,262.00 while only $649,005.48 was collected³.

² Section 351-62.6, Hawaii Revised Statutes, provides that the court shall assess a compensation fee against every convicted offender, or offender who enters a deferred plea, and who is or will be able to pay the fee. Fees are assessed as follows:

1. a $25 fee for a petty misdemeanor;
2. a $50 fee for a misdemeanor; and
3. A $100 to $500 fee for a felony.

³ The Judiciary did not provide an estimate of compensation fee collection for FY 2000. The Judiciary also has not yet provided estimated fee collection data and actual collection data for FY 2003.

Note: Blank fields in the table indicate that the data for that year was not available.

Underestimation of Compensation Fee Revenue

The maximum potential compensation fees that the Judiciary estimated would be collected in FY 2001 and FY 2002 have been calculated at the lowest possible level. The Judiciary's estimate was calculated by multiplying the number of felony convictions by $100, multiplying the number of misdemeanor convictions by $50, and multiplying the number of petty misdemeanor convictions by $25. The Judiciary then subtracted the following amounts from this preliminary total: a percentage of cases where the defendant entered a deferred plea (according to the Judiciary, this avoided cases being double counted); a percentage of cases where the offense was a decriminalized traffic offense; a percentage of cases where the defendant might be indigent (estimated at 20%); and for FY 2002, a percentage of the cases where the defendant was incarcerated.

The maximum potential fee collections for felony cases have been further reduced by using the lowest fee articulated in the statute for felony offenses. Section 351-62.5(a), Hawaii Revised Statutes, provides that the compensation fee for a felony is $100 to $500, depending on the seriousness of the crime. The Judiciary used $100 in all cases for its estimate. In addition, the maximum potential compensation fees have been further reduced in the Judiciary's FY 2002 estimate by subtracting a percentage of the cases where the defendant was incarcerated. The statute provides that the court shall assess the compensation fee against every convicted offender, and every offender who enters a deferred plea, and who is, or will be, able to pay the fee. The Commission's Restitution Project (discussed in the Restitution Project section of this report) clearly shows that incarcerated offenders have the ability to pay, and have been paying, restitution and other court-ordered assessments. Since January 1, 2003, the Commission has collected over $30,000 paid by inmates and parolees to comply with court-ordered restitution and compensation fee assessments.

The Compensation Fee is Not Assessed in All Eligible Cases

Some judges are not assessing the compensation fee in all eligible cases. The Commission has conducted a series of court monitoring projects and surveys to determine if the compensation fees are being assessed in all eligible cases. All of the Commission's surveys found that the compensation fees are not being assessed in all eligible cases.

In late September and early October 2001, the Commission conducted a court-monitoring project to determine if the compensation fee was being assessed in all eligible cases in the Circuit, Family, and District Courts of the First Circuit. The project also reviewed whether the compensation fee was properly waived (based on evidence that the defendant was indigent or otherwise unable to pay). The results suggested that the compensation fee was not assessed in all eligible cases, and in some cases where the compensation fee was waived or not assessed, the record was silent as to whether the offender was indigent and unable to pay the compensation fee.⁴

For example, the Commission found that the compensation fee was not assessed for each eligible offense committed by a single offender. During a two-hour monitoring session of two courtrooms on one day, three offenders each pled to two misdemeanor offenses. Under Section 351-62.6, Hawaii Revised Statutes, the offenders should have been assessed a compensation fee for each offense, for a total of $300. All three offenders were each assessed a compensation fee in only one of the eligible cases, for a total of $150. None of the three offenders asked to have the compensation fee for the second offense waived, and none of the offenders offered any evidence or suggestion that they were indigent and unable to pay the compensation fee for each offense.

These results are consistent with the Commission's earlier survey of case dispositions that show that the compensation fee was not assessed in all eligible cases. The Commission's 2001 survey also found a number of situations where the compensation fee was waived while other statutory fines and fees with lower statutory priority than the compensation fee were assessed.

The Commission is currently conducting another survey of dispositions in the Circuit, District, and Family Courts in the First Circuit. This survey includes case dispositions from the First Circuit Family and District Courts for the week of July 14, 2003, and case dispositions from the First Circuit Court for the weeks of July 14, 2003 and July 21, 2003. Preliminary survey results indicate that while there appears to be some improvement, the compensation fee is still not being assessed in all eligible cases.

⁴ Section 351-62-6(a), Hawaii Revised Statutes, provides that "The court shall impose a compensation fee upon every defendant who has been convicted or who has enter a plea under section 853-1 and who is or will be able to pay the compensation fee. Section 351-62-6, further provides that the fee shall be waived "if the defendant is unable to pay the compensation fee".

Initial results from the Commission's most recent survey also suggest that there are still a significant number of cases, predominantly in the Circuit Court, where there is no finding on the record to indicate why the offender had not been assessed the compensation fee. In FY 2001, the Judiciary reviewed a random sample of 3,898 cases where the compensation fee could have been imposed and found that in 60% of the cases there was no finding on the record to indicate why the offender had not been assessed the compensation fee. In FY 2002, the Judiciary reported that in 40% of the 5,785 cases reviewed, there was no finding on the record to indicate why the offender had not been assessed the compensation fee.

The Commission conducted a survey of cases from FY 2002 comparing the percentage of case terminations in each Circuit to the percentage of compensation fees collected in each Circuit. See Attachment B. In a comparison of District Court case terminations, the survey showed that while the Third Circuit District Court terminated 17.38% of the total District Court terminations for all Circuits, they collected 28.81% of the fees collected for all Circuits. A comparison of Family Court case terminations showed that while the Second Circuit Family Court terminated 28.31% of the total Family Court terminations for all Circuits, they collected only 7.72% of the fees collected for all Circuits. These figures show that assessment and collection of the compensation fee has not been uniformly maximized.

The Commission continues to work with the Judiciary to seek solutions to this problem; however, if the compensation fee is not consistently assessed and collected in all eligible cases, the Commission will not receive enough revenue to compensate all victims of violent crime and will be forced to request an increase in fees or a general fund appropriation.

Payment of Administrative Assessments

Funding challenges created by reduced compensation fee collections are exacerbated by two assessments the Commission is required to pay to Budget and Finance on all non-tax revenue collected by, or on behalf, of the Commission. The first assessment is the five percent (5%) central service expense fee; the second assessment is the Commission's pro-rata share of administrative expenses incurred by the PSD. The Commission estimates that for FY 2004, these two assessments will exceed $75,000.00. The assessments are considered part of the Commission's operating expenses and, therefore payment of these assessments limit Commission funds that are available to pay daily operating expenses and victim compensation awards. This, in turn, hampers the Commission's efforts to maintain fiscal self-sufficiency.

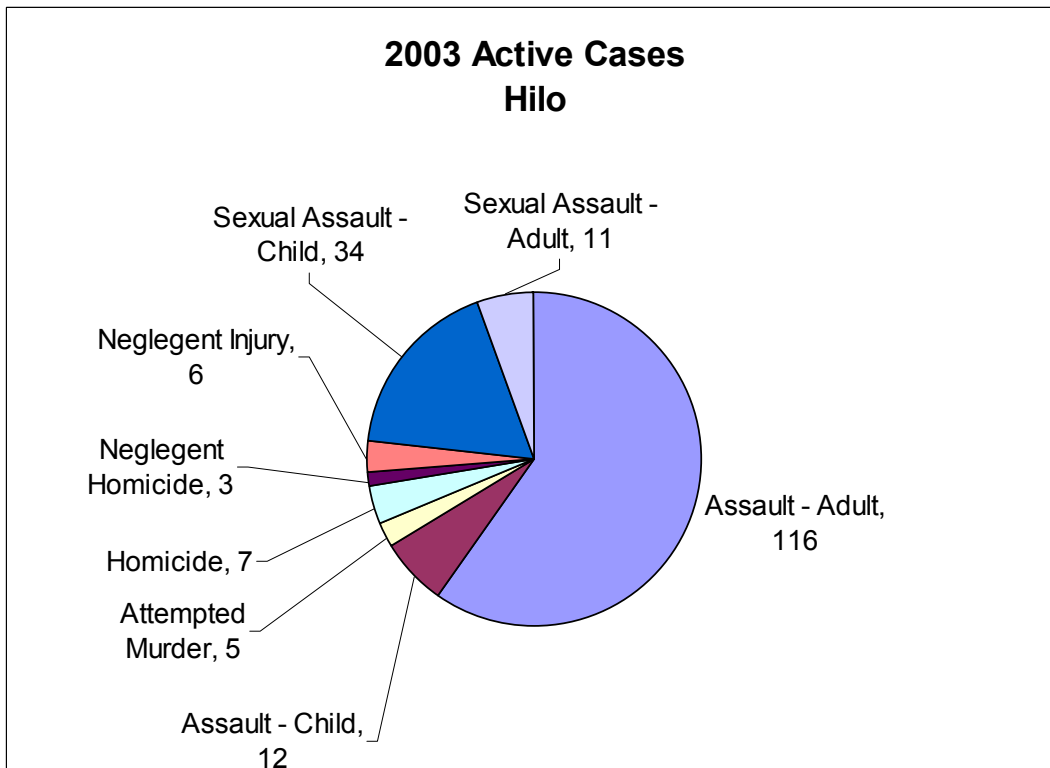

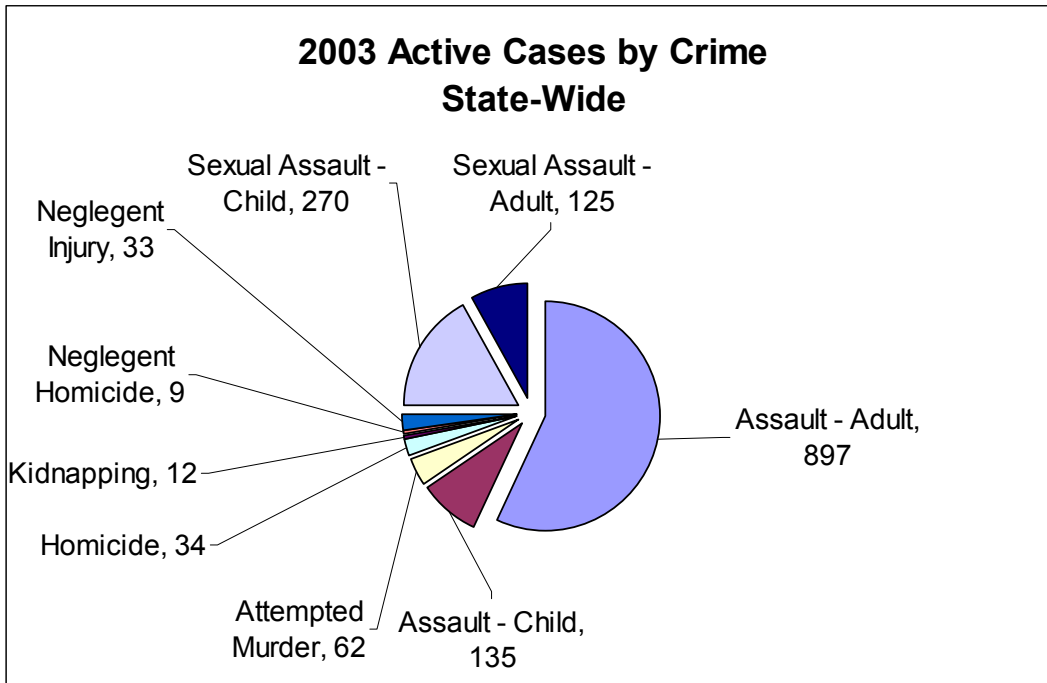

Conclusion

For the past 36 years, the Commission has provided increasing levels of services to the victims of violent crime. The Commission has streamlined case processing by increasing management efficiency, reducing case backlog, cultivating strategic partnerships with other public and private agencies, and making significant gains toward fiscal self-sufficiency. Even with all of its improvements, the Commission continues to pursue strategies to further improve services to victims.

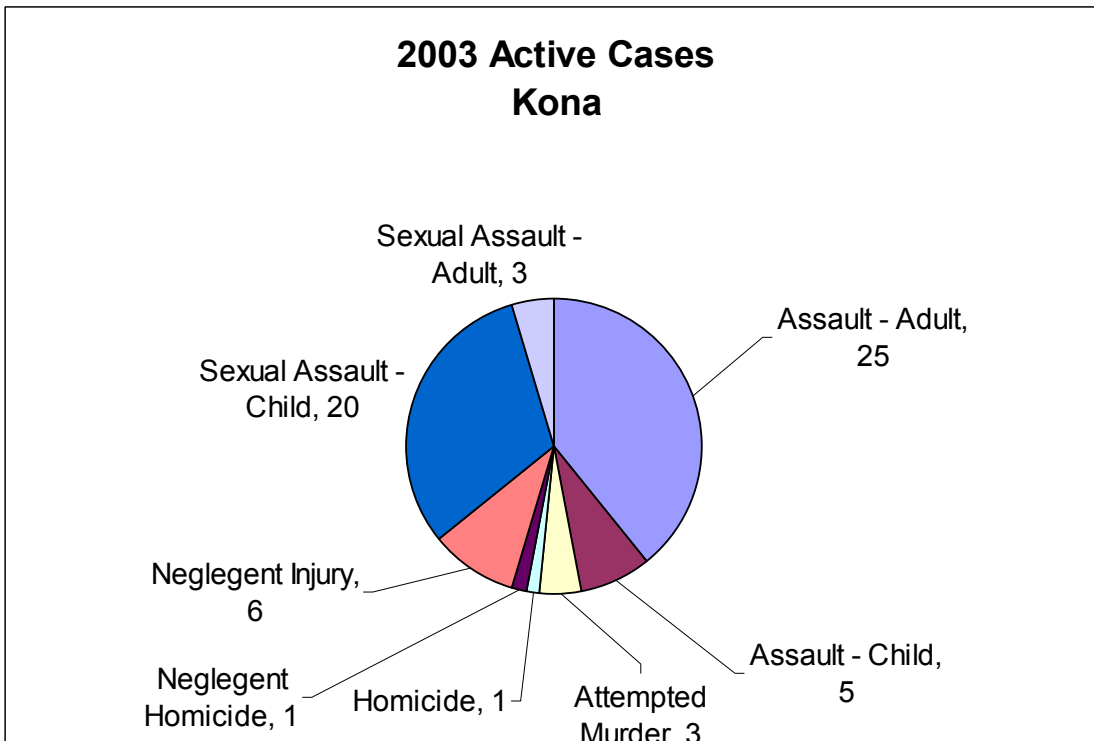

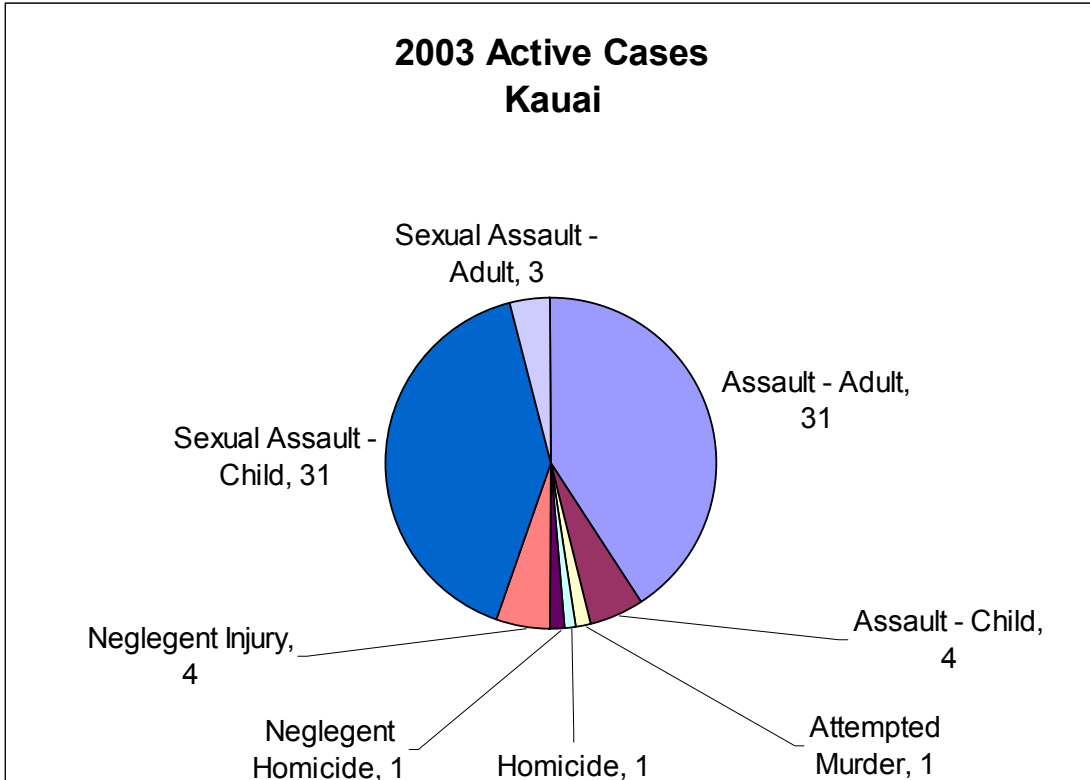

The Commission will continue to work with the Judiciary to ensure that the compensation fee is consistently and uniformly assessed against convicted offenders for deposit with the Commission. The Commission is also seeking statutory authority to enable the Department of Public Safety to garnish inmates' accounts to ensure the court-ordered compensation fee is paid.

The Commission will diligently pursue its mission to mitigate the costly and emotionally devastating impact of violent crime on Hawaii's citizens through continued collaborative efforts, further improvements in management efficiency, and strong staff commitment.
