Other Comments: Medical and Religious diets are being discontinued with inmates that show a high rate of noncompliance. The rice bar continues to be a source of empty calories. White rice is consumed in excess (sometimes 4 extra scoops per inmate) or wasted. Each scoop is the equivalent to 1/4 cup of sugar, which leads to a conservative 26lb weight gain per year. In addition excessive soy sauce is added for flavor, which is high in sodium. This leads obesity and exacerbation of diabetes and hypertension. The cost of the rice bar is approximately $6,480 per month (approx $78,000 per year), which could be used on more nutritious dietary selections. This doesn't factor in the costs associated with treatment of poorly controlled diabetes and hypertension. Perhaps the rice bar could be limited to one day per week. or some other modification. This position is supported by both the facility physician, nurse supervisor, and kitchen manager.
